My Flying Carpet

One day I walked home from a dull, boring day at school, and noticed a carpet on the floor that was not there when I went to school. I asked my mom where it came from. She said she bought it at a flea market. I thought it had a pretty good look to it. It had a huge elephant on it with a King that wore gold. So I bent down to feel how soft it was. Then the ground started moving, and I got higher and higher. Then I realized the ground wasn't moving, it was the soft carpet! It flew out to the warm sunny day. Then the King started to talk he said, "I'm a flying carpet wherever you wish to go, I will take you there." So I was a little surprised for a minute there until I soaked it all up, then I was all better. So I wished I could go to my favorite place in the world with curry rice, Kamonae, Giesha girls, manga, and most of all Anime, My favorite thing in the world. I'm going to Japan!

So he said, "You wished it, I will take you there. So we went off to go to Japan. On the way there I saw a lot of beautiful and ~~grass~~ things. It was exciting! When we got there I went to have some curry rice with the sweet delicious red curry sauce. Yum! After that we went to the manga store and bought a bunch of mangas like, InuYasha, Naruto, Moon Phase, Crescent Moon and Gin Tama. Then we went to the anime shop and bought a lot of nice action, fantasy, horror movies like InuYasha, Naruto, Neo Ranga, Steel Angel Kurumi, Full Metal Panic, Yu Yu Hakusho, Sanman King, Bleach, Eureka Seven and Trinity Blood. Then I thought we had enough of a fantastic adventure, and I didn't want my mom to worry about me. Probably my mom won't approve of all these Japanese things, because she never really cared, she always called anime, Chinky Chong. I mean what in the world is a Chinky Chong. When we got home I had all of the stuff I got, and placed the carpet down where it was before I left. Then I went into my room and read and watched everything awesome I had bought!

This response reflects a strong degree of proficiency in narrative writing skills. The response is generally well organized and coherently developed. Specific details explain and illustrate key ideas. Some syntactic variety is demonstrated, and there are few writing errors. However, the response would benefit from more sophisticated language and a stronger introduction and conclusion.
